Community Development Mission Statement

Community Development is a collective process through which members of communities and groups share, reflect on and analyse their own experiences, identify their needs and work towards making appropriate changes at an individual, community and societal level.

Community Development requires active and meaningful participation and learning from those most disadvantaged by society's systems.

The purpose is to help create a more equal, inclusive and tolerant society.

Meitheal has a particular focus on supporting, encouraging and developing the process of community development and working in the community development sector.
